HE WANTED AN EDUCATION!

GEORGE WESTINGHOUSE
Whose Youthful Ambitions Have Been More Than Realized.

Before even he entered high school, George Westinghouse determined to have a college education. To this end he saved all the money he earned, and at the outbreak of the civil war was ready for college. Dropping his studies to join the cavalry he entered Union college at the close of the war, and in 1868 patented the wonderful airbrake with which all passenger cars, and most freight cars are today equipped.

He was the first to introduce and develop alternating electric current machinery in this country, and today is at the head of 30 corporations capitalized at $120,000,000, employing over 50,000 people, with extensive works not only in the United States but in Canada, England, France, Germany, Austria, Russia and Italy as well.

Westinghouse, the boy, saved to obtain a college education. How many young fellows in Willimantic are doing the same thing today? Any person connected with the Willimantic Savings Institute will gladly show you how easy it is to accumulate enough to go through college. Will you try it?

they were full-grown, but Dr. Mason said he could say with absolute certainty they were not of premature birth.

Clinton T. Wood, of this city, who introduced the couple to each other, took the stand, and told of their meeting, which he said was on the night of June 28, 1914, at the corner of Jackson and Main streets. He remembered the time as it was just following his grandfather's death. He walked home with a niece of the then Miss Nolan, who was taken home by Mr. Lyman. Miss Lillian Lyman, sister of the plaintiff, testified to a conversation with Mrs. Lyman in October or November of 1914, in which the latter told her she met her husband the last of June.

Lyman's Testimony.
The complainant took the stand, and told the story of his relations with Miss Nolan, beginning with his meeting her on June 28. Some time near the latter part of July she told him he was responsible for the condition she was in, and as a result he married her on September 8th.

He was cross-examined at length, and admitted that his wife had a fall in December, and was in bad shape after it, and Dr. Parker was called to take care of her. The names of the children he suggested to his wife, he told Dr. Parker to get the other physicians to examine the children, as he wanted to be sure they were full-grown. After the verdict of the doctors he did not live with his wife. He went to see her in the hospital, and did not say anything to her about the children until she was able to sit up. When she left the hospital, he went to Brooklyn, and when he came back, she was at her mother's home. He left two hundred dollars for her support with H. H. Lyman, but did not tell his wife so.

Annulment of Marriage
Sought by Samuel E. Lyman in Seasonal Case—Doctors Testify Regarding Birth of Twins.

The suit for annulment of marriage brought by Samuel E. Lyman of this city against Lucy A. Lyman, occupied all day in the superior court, and was not concluded until 6 o'clock. Several witnesses will be introduced in rebuttal this morning, and the arguments will follow.

The complaint in the case is that the plaintiff and defendant were married in September of 1914, he relying on the statement that he was responsible for her condition at the time, that he met the defendant on June 28, 1914, and that on Jan. 10, 1915, she was the mother of two full-grown children. The defense denied all allegations of fraud, and admitted only the marriage, and the birth of the children.

Dr. T. R. Parker of this city, the first witness, was the attending physician at the time of the birth, and testified to that fact. He said the children were full-term children, and that he examined them carefully at the time, on account of the fact that they were born so soon after the couple met.

On cross-examination he said he did not remember whether a call he made at the home of the couple in December of 1914 was because of a fall that Mrs. Lyman had sustained. He told of the children within a week or so after their birth. When questioned about the birth certificate made out by him, he said that he had admitted writing in it "name of father—unknown." Mrs. Lyman never told him she did not know who the father was. He put it in it, she told him when she met Mr. Lyman, and the children were full-grown. Asked why he put in that the girl was the third child born to the mother, and the boy the second, he said Mrs. Lyman told him she had had another child.

Say Children Were Full-Grown.
Mrs. Owen O'Neill and Louis I. Mason followed, testifying that in their opinion, based on an examination made soon after birth, the children were full-term children, with a 280 day period of gestation. Dr. O'Neill would not state with absolute certainty that nothing was said about the paternity of the children until after their birth. She said Dr. Parker questioned her as to whether the father was, and charged her with relations with someone other than her husband, and she denied it. She never told him she had had a child before. After she left the hospital and went to the Lyman home, she asked for Sam, but Dr. A. Lyman would not tell her where he was. She said there was "no doubt in the least" that her husband was the father of the children.

Questioned as to Life in Baltic.
The cross-examination tried to get admissions from her as to her life in Baltic, where she said she was for a couple of months in the winter of 1913, and as to whether she "kept company" with anyone else, naming a man who worked in the city house of the American Thread company, but most of the replies elicited were denials of alleged facts or statements.

Mother of Defendant Testifies.
Nelle Haddock told of the hour's stop in her father's store the day before Christmas, after the fall of Mrs. Lyman, and she was followed by Mrs. Catherine McCarthy, a sister, and Mrs. Margaret Nolan, the mother of the defendant, who placed her meeting with Sam as the first part of June, and that she did not know who the father of the children was. She said that she and the first of July, Mrs. Nolan also told of going to the selectmen for help in the case, and the two children. After that Mr. Lyman came over and made arrangements for their board.

Denied New York Visit.
The defendant was recalled by the plaintiff and denied that she was ever in New York before her marriage, or that she ever told Mrs. D. A. Lyman that she had been in New York previous to her marriage in that city.

Blair, who was told to stop by Officer Hurley, paid no attention to the warning. His plea was that he was not informed as to the city ordinances since he had been in the city but three months, his home being in Nashua, N. H., and he did not recognize Mr. Hurley's authority.

Barthelemy Chartier, a driver for Hormidas Dion, was fined two dollars with costs remitted, for violating the traffic regulation, which deals with leaving motor vehicles within ten feet of a hydrant. MRS. LYON'S ACHEs AND PAINs

Have All Gone Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Terre Hill, Pa.—"Kindly permit me to give you my testimonial in favor of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I first began taking it I was suffering from female troubles for some time and had almost all kinds of aches—pains in lower part of back and in sides, and pressing down pains. I could not sleep and had no appetite. Since I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the aches and pains are all gone and I feel like a new woman. I cannot praise your medicine too highly."—Mrs. AUGUSTUS LYON, Terre Hill, Pa.

It is true that nature and a woman's work has produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known. From the roots and herbs of the field, Lydia E. Pinkham, forty years ago, gave to womankind a remedy for their peculiar ills which has proved more efficacious than any other combination of drugs ever compounded, and today Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is recognized from coast to coast as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health—many of them openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; and in some cases that it has saved them from surgical operations.

The Coffee Drug

Do you know what it is?

It's caffeine—a poisonous and powerful nerve irritant—about 2½ grains to the cup of coffee.

Listen to what physicians say:

"Coffee and tea are poisonous drugs. The caffeine they contain is of the same nature as uric acid. They impair digestion and produce various disorders of the nerves."

If you haven't suspected coffee as the cause of headaches, biliousness, heart-flutter or sleeplessness, suppose you test the matter by a change to the pure food-drink, INSTANT POSTUM.

There's no caffeine nor any harmful substance in this delicious beverage—just the nourishing elements of wheat, roasted with a bit of wholesome molasses—with a snappy flavour similar to that of mild, high-grade Java.
